Even the learned counsel who defends a murderer in Court is carefully kept by a strict rule of etiquette from coming into personal contact with his client; but it is one of the advantages of travelling in distant parts of the world that many of the refinements and conventionalities of an over sensitive state of society, need not interfere with a man's independent action.

As stated some time ago, it is fitterly in-CHUNG How, except those of necessity for obtaining "Queen's evidence." If these questions can be answered satisfactorily, Chung How will be acquitted; if not, there is as strong reason now as there was ever to believe that he was directly implicated in the whole affair, notwithstanding the somewhat unaccountable conduct of the French Charge d'Affaires in acquitting him and, it may be presumed, in also approving of the Mission. until to day. The only object of receiving him would be to settle the matter, and in that case the Chinese will be fully parsuaded that European nations have yielded to fear. The wisest plan, therefore, will be to refuse to receive him at once. Further, it will be fainl to lind been committed, and then only when there all security in China if the Chinese be taught to believe that the Ministers at Pekin are taken not to kill. BRITISH OFFICIALS FOR HIRP WITHER BY THE TERM OR JUB

(N. U. Daily Nowa) Of all the abuses which have grown but of pre diplomatic connection with China, none has been more injurious to our toterests thun the system of " lent men ! and as, within s few days, there is relieve to believerthat Great Britain will have the misfortune to be reprenonted, at Poking, solely by men who have occupied the rather questionable position of having served two man ers, it is of importance that due attention should be called to this photo, in our affairs. The British Obarce d'affaires and the assistant Chinese Secretary have, as most of our renders are aware, both been, with the consent of their Government. in high positions in the Chinese service. However much we call in que tion the discretion of the present British Charge, we must premise that he, however, is above suspicion, and that if therefore it can be shown that the influence on him has been detrimental to our cause, it will be readily be seen how much more dengerous may that influence become when acting on men of more pliant minds. There is some similarity in the times during which the two leading instances we have quoted entered the Chinese varvice, inas much us the connection of both with that service terminated on account of disputes brought on by the ill-fuith of the Chinese Government, In other respects, Mr. Wado's connections with the service be had temporarie y entered, differed widely from the latest matanco in the person of Mr. McLeary Brown. Mr. Wade wes in fact put in by his own Government to assist in introducing a much needed reform in the collection of Customs; and under such circumstances as naturally permitted him to leave it, when his own Government required his selvices, during the war in the North of China. No man with the nicost feeling of honour could thus cavil at the position of Mr. Wade; his a rvices were granted for s specific object, in the common interest of the two mations; this object attained, and his own Government again claiming those pervices, be became interpreter to Land Elgin's mission, a festly fitted him.

and of consulting with them as one of their own officers, is a bad school for learning ndependence of charactet. It may be added. too, that Mr. Wade, during his connection with the Imperial Customs, did not always see, the best ade of foreigners. The system he was desired to supplant had been so essentially rotten that, on the one side, it had encouraged peculation and on the other evasion; and to guard against the latter, was one of the principal duties of Mr. Wade's department. Whatever Mr. Wade was originally, there is some reason to believe that this temporary connection with the Chinese bud the effect of making him appear 's more or less of an advocate for the overnment whose service be had left, when called on to take the responsible post of Interpreter to Lord Elgin. The non-obcupation of Peking, the chunting of the audience quention, and one or two other points in connection with the treaties and convention, have been more or less of truth attributed the advice of the late Customs official who then, probably from the enecess of the new system of Customs collection, was disposed to look with more singuing eyes than ontaiders, on the good intentions of the Chiness Government That Mr. Wade did not fter the settlement of affairs, think it noces. mary to cut altogether this knot of sconnection we may judge from the letter of advice which he nome time after sent in to the Obinese Go vernment, and which, though never published we have been informed in certain quarters was desire to effect this; (and there is no objection an able and exhaustive document. Now the very fact that in all this Mr. Wade soted under the authority and with the full knowledge and consent of his own Government and that throughout, his motives were uniformly upright and above board, while it must exonerate him from any blame, is not the less instructive, an an instance of the evils of a false system. NOW READY. IMPERIAL QUARTO. ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Church Dictionant, by the Re-W. LOBSCHEID, published at the Daily

Press Office, Hongkong

POR scope and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous abjects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extense. Each and every word in fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typegraphy displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond Cabin and Ship BISCUICS, at the lowest rates, in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have herotofore characterized Chinese publications. The scope of the work is so great, and its utilitarian purposes so complete, that a refurence to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the fixtives themselves it explains subjects fully, with which very low in-deed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in Ohina it cannot but be invulnable occasionally It comprises upwards of two thousand large

WORKING MEN'S MEETING ON THE WAR. Pull Mall Gazelle. A largo meeting of representative working men was held at the Arundel Hall on the night of September 7th, under the presidency of Mr. Edmand Beiles, for the purpose of or anising a movement among the working chases in this country in favour of recestablishing pouce in the present orisis; and of procuring arbitration in place of war generally. Mr. Gremer, the hon, coretary, reported that circulated among as many centres of the working classes throughout the country and the response. had been such a hearty and strong expression. Covered with the emptions and sores caused by in favour of peace as could scarcely have been scrofnlous blood, there is a remedy that never articipated. Mr. Beales said be was in favour of protesting against war altogether, and was imposed to all partiannship as affected either whole budy—it is Bararon's Sansarantilla.

MR. SALA ARRESTED AS A PRUSSIAN Mr. G. A. Sala, the special correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, gives an account of his imprisons ont in Paris as a Prossian app :-I have been the victim (he says) either of misapprehension or malevolence, which has very nearly cost me my life. I was denounced at the Cafe do Helder on Saturday night, by two persons totally unknown to me, as a "Prussian de Richelien. Unfortunately, I had left my "papers" for safety's sake in the bureau of my route at the Grand Hotel; but my application to be allowed to send a messenger for thom was beadaube, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Side, refused. At the guardhouse, however, I was trented with some degree of civility by the soldiers on duty; but at about five o'clock in | gestion, Sour Stomach, Flatulency, and Heartthe morning a squad of pergents de ville made burn-your Costiveness, Piles, Sickness at the their appearance; and, to my retonishment, I was, placed in the midst of them, and dragged violently through the streets to the Central Poste of the Boulevard Bonne Nouvelle. learned, subsequently, that there liad been an attack made on this post during the excitement of the preceding evening, and that some shots broken the laws on which Nature bases the by revolvers had been fired by the sergents | bodily dase, comfort, health and strength of the de ville upon the people, some of whom were wounded. The police at the post, when I was brought in, were in a state of extreme exast drad to one, that unless your system gets peration, and to that perhaps, I may asoribe prompt aid, your trouble will go on increasing the treatment to which I was subjected I was ment of by these agents of authority with cries of "Espion Prussien!" "Brigand Prussien!" human help. The point of great importance, and the like, and with this undesirable note of thes, is to obtain the proper remedy—someinfreduction was thrust into a borrible dungoon. which, at the most, perhaps, would have thing that will cure safely, and not by violent upright. In this abouinable den, however, no health it is intended to rectors. There is such less than seventeen persons were crammed; and this number, by seven o'clock, was increased twenty-two. This Cave of Despair was lit most delicate, yet powerful enough for the by one small circular orifice high up in the strongest-searching out every atom of discussed wall, beavily grated, and communicating not with the open air, but with a lobby. Two Tioya in blomses had contrived, by hoisting zing it-giving wonderful tone and strength to the incurred on the shoulders of their elders, the stomach vicer to the liver and regularity to hang on to the bare of the window, whence they shrieked unremittingly for air and water.

A broken down looking old man by my side, in is a white blouse, and whose only offence, he said. was that of selling newspapers in the streets without a police permit, had been in this inferno. he told me, for thiry-six hours without one scrap of food, and at intervals, when the door of the duageon was opened toadmit fresb'prisoners, the best of all nervines. They are the result of sergents de ville mocked him byputting down his long years of careful and laborious study; and name as being " suns pain," but brought bim mone. For the rest, my companions in captivity in anying they are the best of all purgatives. were ruffigue accused of crimes of violence, thieves, and vagabonds of the very lowest description. The heat of the place was sufficating, the steach insupportable, the filth simply Maleholgian; and consequently, in common language, indescribable. I fainted away, but no efforts were made to succour me. On the contrary, when I recovered consciousness-under the impetus of a kick from a wooden shoe, which has cut a triangular piece out of one of my ankles-I found that I had been thrust under the long wooden bench running along one side of the cell, and that my pockets had been carefully turned out. Fortunately, as it happened then. I was without my papers. Then commonced a series of outrages which I shall not forget until my dying day, which I shadder to recall, and some of which I cannot record. I buy huddled in a heap on the filthy floor of the bell, under the beach, the perfectly helpless viction of the ruffians who were wedged together about me, and who, unable perhaps to get full purchase for their arms to strike me, satiated their anyngery by spurning me with their feet. I did not receive one actual blow, but in throwup up my left urm to screen my face, one ennibal bit me severely on the back of the hand. The rest was merely a headache when other applications completely system of stampings and spurnings, braising the whole of my left side fearfully but I cannot but feel grateful that I was under taxed body. It imparts force and buoyancy the bonch. Had they scope and verge enough I should have been dragged out, jumped upon, and perhaps murdered. These agonies were agreemented by the foolest abuse and cries of Espion Prussien!"
